Still looking for MORE PROOF

why postcards are more successful compared to other media?

-  TV/Radio: Depends on people watching at that particular moment. Nearly impossible to tell if customers respond to it or not.
-  Outdoor Billboards: Doesn't have tracking ability and takes long-term exposure for people to notice it.
-  Coupon Packs: Always get littered across thousands of homes but only a small percentage open them; typically the "bargain" hungers you don't want anyway. You end up squished between competitors and multiple pages, plummeting your true exposure down to peanuts.
-  Internet Marketing: Exposes you to people actively searching for your services, but for every person searching, there are many more who would respond if you simply invited them.

Think about if you had one chance to send a critically important message to someone. Would you:

- Do a commercial and hope they saw it?
- Put it in a coupon mailer and hope they opened it?
- Upload it to the internet and hope they surfed over to it?

That's why giant postcards work so well, they simply get your message in front of everyone, every single time, without fail.

Don't let your competitor steal the spotlight from you, reserve your space in our next co-op campaign NOW!
